

Mr. Ritchie Jackson Chosen NHS Teacher of the Year

The faculty of NHS selected Ritchie Jackson to represent the Eagles as Teacher of the Year. Mr. Jackson is the NHS Theatre Director and the sponsor for Florida Thespian Troupe 7457.

"I believe in the importance of arts education. I believe that students need a creative outlet and a way to express themselves and it is my mission to make the theatre department at NHS another jewel in the crown of this school's impressive programs, but the struggle has been real," said Jackson.

Mr. Jackson's theatre department produced the highly successful Disney's "A Little Mermaid, Jr." last spring at NHS; it had record-breaking ticket sales. Mr. Jackson has pledged to help the theatre department move onward and upward. He is a 1982 graduate of NHS.

Best wishes at the district level!
